

Value of a U-M Degree

The University of Michigan offers more than a world-class higher education. Our students routinely cite intellectual development and career success among the top motivations for earning their degree.

Discover the value of a U-M degree through alumni perspectives on career preparation and satisfaction.

Career Preparation

Alumni attest that their U-M degree provided a strong foundation for professional success.

received helpful career advice while attending U-M.

My degree helped me...

prepare for my career.

72%

prepare for grad/prof school (if applicable).

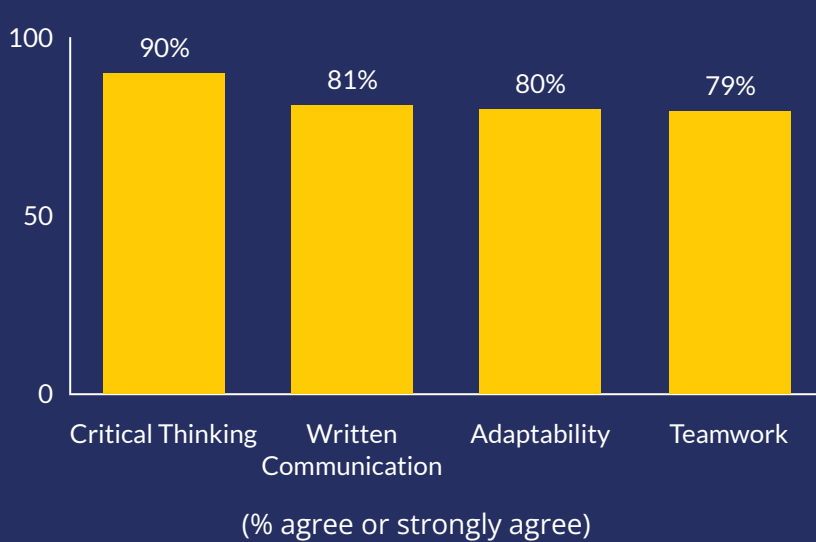

84%

gain decision making skills.

74%

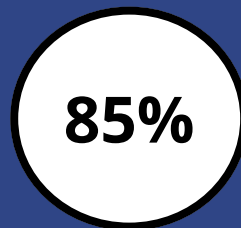

(% agree or strongly agree)

My degree helped me gain the following:

Career Growth

Over 81% of participants report that their current position provides opportunities for career advancement.

have the opportunity to learn new career skills in their current position.

Satisfaction

U-M graduates report high satisfaction with their education and career outcomes, emphasizing the value of a U-M degree for both academic enrichment and professional development.

84%

are satisfied with their educational experience.

76%

are satisfied with their current career.

82%

work in a position that is meaningful.

(% agree or strongly agree)

